1 INTRODUCTION

Inteleqt Business Solutions Proprietary Limited is an analytics company providing data analytics products and services, business intelligence software and/or advisory services to a diverse range of customers (the “Company”).

This manual (the “Manual”) is published in terms of section 51 of the Promotion of Access to Information Act 2 of 2000 (the “PAIA Act”) and provides an outline of the type of records and personal information which the Company holds and processes. The Manual also explains how to submit requests for access to these records in terms of the PAIA Act. In addition to explaining how to access, or object to, personal information held by the Company, or request correction of the personal information, in terms of sections 23 and 24 of the Protection of Personal Information Act 4 of 2013 (the “POPI Act”), the Manual also explains how to submit requests for access to these records in terms of the PAIA Act.

The objective of the PAIA Act is to give effect to the constitutional right to access to information, which information is held by a public or private body and which information is required for the exercise or protection of any rights. The PAIA Act recognises the right entrenched in section 32 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996 and aims to foster a culture of transparency and accountability in public and private bodies by giving effect to the right of access to information.

Accordingly, this PAIA Manual aims to establish and foster a culture of compliance with prevailing data protection legislation, which in turn gives rise to an environment within which the rights to access to information are actively protected and promoted.

Section 9 of the PAIA Act dictates that the right to access to information is not an unlimited right and is subject to certain limitations, which include limitations which balance the rights which data subjects have to access information against other rights which data subjects and interested parties have, whether it be in terms of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996 or otherwise. Some of these rights which the right to access to information are weighed up against are aimed at protecting the fundamental right to privacy and maintaining the confidentiality (whether it be commercial or individual confidentiality) of interested parties so as to maintain acceptable levels of governance.

1.1 Availability and Purpose of this PAIA Manual

3.1 Availability of Company Records

The provisions of the PAIA Act, specifically the provisions of section 50 of the Act, dictate that a requester for access to information must be afforded access to any record of the Company if the following requirements are met -

- where a particular record is required for the exercise or protection of any rights (Section 50(1)(a) of the PAIA Act);
- where a requester complies with the procedural requirements set forth in the PAIA Act relating to a request for access to particular records (Section 50(1)(b) of the PAIA Act); and
- where access to that particular record is not refused in terms of any of the grounds for refusal to access contemplated in terms of Chapter 4 of the PAIA Act (Section 50(1)(c) of the PAIA Act).

The below table sets forth the categories and subcategories of records which the Company processes. Each category and subcategory of records set out below may be subject to any one (or a number) of the grounds upon which the Company may refuse access to records. These grounds for refusal are set out in Chapter 4 of the PAIA Act, as well as described in the table at 3.3 below.

Personnel Records
Personnel refers to any person who assists in carrying out or conducting the business of The Company. This includes, without limitation, executive and non-executive directors. Personnel records include the following -

3.2 Access to Health or Other Records

If a request for access to health or other records provided by a health practitioner, in their capacity as such, relates to the physical, mental health, or well-being of the requester, or if the request has been made on behalf of the person to whom the record relates ("the relevant person"), and the Company's Information Officer is of the opinion that the disclosure of the record to the relevant person might cause harm to his or her physical, mental health or well-being, the Company's Information Officer may, before giving access to such record consult with a health practitioner who has been nominated by the relevant person.

If the relevant person is below the age of 16 years, a person having parental responsibilities for the relevant person must make the above nomination and if the relevant person is incapable of managing his or her affairs, a person appointed by the court to manage those affairs must make that nomination.

If, after being given access to the relevant record, the health practitioner consulted is of the opinion that the disclosure of the record to the relevant person, would be likely to cause serious harm to his or her physical, mental health or well-being, the Information Officer may only grant access to the relevant record if the requester proves that adequate provision is made for such counselling or arrangements as are reasonably practicable before, during or after the disclosure of the record to limit, alleviate or avoid such harm to the relevant person. Before access to the record is given to a requester, the person responsible for such counselling or arrangement must be given access to the record.

3.3 Grounds for Refusal of Access to the Company's Record

Upon receipt of a request for access to information, the Company will be required to consider such a request in light of the provisions of section 50 of the PAIA Act. Subject to such consideration, the Company will be required to either grant such a request or refuse such a request. If the Company elects to refuse access to a particular record, such refusal will be subject to the Company's interpretation of the various prescribed grounds for refusal as set forth in Chapter 4 of the PAIA Act and in the table below -

Requests for access to records must be made by completing the prescribed Form A and paying the requester's fee. Where such access is granted in terms of this PAIA Manual, the information and documentation will be made available at the offices of the Company (the particulars of which appear in section 2 above)
